Germany Told Safety of American Lives Cannot Be Made Conditional on Way England Prosecutes War.

Western Namepaper Union News Service Washington.-Following is the text of the note cabled by Secretary Lansing to Ambassasior Gerard at Berlin with instructions to deliver it to the German minister of foreign affairs:

With instructions to deliver it to the German minister of foreign affairs:

The note of the imperial German government under date of May 4, 1916, has received careful consideration by the government of the United States. It is especially noted as indicating the purpose of the imperial government as to the future, that it is prepared to the lits utmost to confine the operation of the war for the rest of its duration to the fighting forces of the belligerents, and that it is determined to impose upon all its commanders at reather instantenal law, upon which the government of the United States has insisted.

Throughout the months which have classed since the imperial government announced, on Feb. 4, 1915, its submarine policy, now happily abandoned, the government of the United States has been constantly guided and restrained by motives of friendship in its patient efforts to bring to an amicable seitlement the critical questions arising from that policy.

"Accepting the imperial government of the policy which has so seriously menaced the good relations between the two countries, the government of the mow altered policy of the imperial government such as will rely upon a scrupulous execution henceforth of the now altered policy of the imperial government such as will remove the principal danger to an interruption of the good relations existing between the United States and Germany.

cipal danger to an interruption of the good relations existing between the United States and Germany.

The government of the United States feels it necessary to state that it takes it for granted that the imperial German government does not intend to imply that the maintenance of its newly announced policy is in any way contingent upon the course of diplomatic negotiations between the government of the United States and any other belingerent government, notwithstanding the fact that certain passes of the imperial government's note withstanding the fact that certain panages of the imperial government's note of the 4th isst, might appear to be susceptible of that construction.

"In order, however, to avoid any possible misunderstanding, the government of the United States notifies the imperial government that It cannot for a moment entertain, much less discuss, a suggestion that respect by the German havail authorities for the rights of critices of the United States upon the high seas should in any way or in the slightest degree be made contingent upon the conduct of any other government affectling the rights of neutrals and noncombatants. Re-or in the slightest degree be made contingent upon the conduct of any other government affecting the rights of neutrals and noncombatants. Responsibility in such matters is single, not joint, absolute, not relative.

Mr. Lansing's statement made public after the note was on its way to Berlin, follows.

The greater part of the German answer is devoted to matters which this government cannot discuss with the German government. The only questions of right which can be discussed with that government are those arising out of its action or out of our own and in no event those questions which are the subject of diplomatic exchanges between the United States and any other country.

"The essence of the answer is that Germany yields to our representations with regard to the rights of merchant ships and noncombatants on the high seas, and engages to observe the recognized rules of international law governing naval warfare in using her submarines against merchant ships. So long as she lives up to this alterel policy we can have no reason to quarret with her on that score, though the losses resulting from the violation of American rights by German submarine commanders operating under the former policy will have to be settled.

While our differences with Great Britain cannot form a subject of discussion with Germany, it should be stated that in our dealings with the British government we are acting as we are unquestionably bound to act in view of the explicit treaty engagements with that government. We have treaty obligations as to the manner in which matters in dispute between the two governments are to be becaused. ner in which matters in dispute be tween the two governments are to b tween the two governments are to be handled.

"We offered to assume mutually similar ebligations with Germany, but the offer was declined. When, however, the subject in dispute is a continuing menace to American lives it is dealeful whether such obligations apply unless the memory is removed during the pendency of the proceedings
